BIG OLY TROPHY TRUCK NEARING COMPLETION

It has been a long three years since we first mentioned this beast's buildup. Marshall Madruga's Big Oly Trophy Truck is slowly coming along with major progress just lately. Most the major components are built with testing and fine tuning starting right now.

For those of you that missed it back in '07, Marshall's goal is to build a desert racing trophy truck inspired by the famous Parnelli Jones/Bill Stroppe racer. He wants to turn back time (or turn time forward depending on how you look at it) with his version of a "Bronco" racer that receives as many trophies and fan excitement as the original did back in the early 1970's.

Of course, building a custom machine like this ain't cheap so

Marshall has designed and is selling t-shirts to help fund the project. Hit marshallmadruga.com or call 619-222-0301 and order a shirt so we can see this reincarnation take to the dirt as soon as possible.

We don't want to show you too many photos, only what your appetite. We will be doing a full feature on it as soon as it is completed.
